Workshop Overview:

The Omega Women's Leadership Intensive

Become the Kind of Leader the World Needs Now

With Mallika Dutt, Carla Goldstein, Leslie Salmon Jones, Sarah Urech, and guest faculty Sharon Salzberg
October 16-21, 2022

Whether guiding a family, working in an organization, running a business, or holding public office, leadership involves deciding what matters most. Today, the old "command and control" leadership model is giving way to "connect and collaborate," and women are playing a central role in this important shift.

This highly experiential workshop is for all who identify as women and want to use their leadership to create a caring, just, and sustainable future for everybody. Through reflection, dialogue, writing, movement, meditation, and contact with nature, we delve deep into our leadership stories in an intimate setting. We examine current and historic systems of power, privilege, and domination and how they intersect, and learn what we can do to advance change. We engage in transformative exercises that awaken us to do power differently and shape a new narrative.

Guided by expert teachers, we explore five leadership essentials—values, voice, vessel, vision, and voyage. Together we:

- Articulate our core values and the values that underlie creating a culture of care
- Strengthen our capacity to communicate with impact
- Engage in a healing exploration of our "vessel" or embodied self
- Create a compelling and actionable vision
- Engage in a deep exploration of self in order to be a more authentic leader
- Learn to incorporate self-care practices, intersectionality, and empathy into our work
- Sketch a year's leadership plan to put our values into action, elevate our voice, and advance our vision for change

Whether you are a seasoned leader or beginning your leadership journey, this intensive can help you be the courageous, wise, and nurturing leader the world needs today.
