Omega Launches Video Library Online to Feature Women Leaders Who #DoPowerDifferently

12 Years of Insights & Inspiration from Acclaimed Women & Power Conference Series Available for the First Time

RHINEBECK, NY – Omega Institute today announced it will release archival video from its acclaimed Women & Power series, which has run since 2002 and has featured dynamic trailblazers like Jane Fonda, Ani DiFranco, Mellody Hobson, Isabel Allende, Ai-jen Poo and many more. The Omega Women’s Leadership Center (OWLC) has curated videos from past conference speakers by the common threads of power, feminism, money, peace, and leadership. All video content will be offered free of charge, and additional video will be released over time.

“More than half a million women have come through Omega’s doors and thousands have participated in our Women & Power series,” said Carla Goldstein, chief external affairs officer at Omega and cofounder of the Omega Women’s Leadership Center. “We are delighted people around the world will now have access to some of the most poignant and provocative moments from the past 12 years and can join a growing community who want to Do Power DifferentlySM.”

For more than 35 years, Omega has provided interdisciplinary opportunities for human development across the lifespan with an integrated approach to personal growth and social change. An outgrowth of this work, the Omega Women’s Leadership Center \(OWLC\), supported by a highly esteemed and international advisory council, offers a variety of opportunities for women to strengthen their leadership at home, at work, and in the world.
